Yes. A will can provide for a certain child that on the date of signing thereof is still to be born and can also refer to further children to be born in future.

Volker Krüger